YOUNG DESPERADOS

Three Colored Boys Terrorize Neighborhood—Hold Up and Rob Youth.

Monday morning about 10 o'clock the neighborhood along East Third street was the scene of a daring hold-up and robbery on the part of some youths.

Alex, Kirk, aged 13, colored, was playing with three brothers, Odus Fletcher, aged 15; Thomas Fletcher, aged 13, and Walter Fletcher, aged 7, and all went well until Kirk told the boys he had a dollar. Thomas Fletcher asked to see it and Kirk showed him the money, holding it rather loosely in his hand. Fletcher grabbed the dollar and started to run, with Kirk in hot pursuit. After some little distance was covered Fletcher was overtaken by Kirk and thrown down, and while Kirk tried to get the dollar from him Fletcher called to his brothers to help him.

Odus Fletcher and Walter Fletcher ran up and held Kirk while Thomas Fletcher made off with the money, hiding it under a sofa in his residence and refusing to give it up. Officer Tolle, who was working on a case where some small negro boys had taken the wheels off a baby carriage belonging to H. K. Muse Sunday, and having these boys under suspicion, was near their home when Kirk told him of the affair about the dollar.

He went to their home and placing the Fletcher boys under arrest, lodged them in the city jail. They are all under age and will probably be tried in the Juvenile Court before Judge Rice.

WILD PULLEY DOES DAMAGE.

Monday morning about 10 o'clock a pulley used in supplying power to the carrier that brings logs from the front in the river to the saw, at the Limestone Lumber Company's plant, flew off the axle and out through the side of the building. One piece crashed against the board fence back of Mr. Elbert Montgomery's residence, on Second street, and narrowly missed Mr. John Candy, an employee of the saw mill. The other piece flew into the air and crashed down on the roof of Mr. Montgomery's house. Luckily, none of the pieces hit any one, for at the great rate of speed they were traveling serious injury would have resulted.

INJUNCTION GRANTED

Judge Newell Issues Restraining Order Which Will Be Immediately Taken To Higher Court.

On Monday morning Judge Newell rendered his decision in the case of I. M. Lane et als., vs. the City of Maysville, et als., wherein the plaintiffs asked for an injunction prohibiting the laying of certain brick streets and setting forth reasons why the ordinance authorizing the pavement is invalid.

Judge Newell grants the injunction prayed for and holds the ordinance illegal on the ground that it was not adopted by a two-thirds vote of the members-elect of the City Council, as required by law. Following is Judge Newell's decision in full:

Mason Circuit Court.
I. M. Lane et als., Plaintiffs, vs. the City of Maysville, et als., Defendants.

Order.
The application for injunction here in having been made before me and on agreement of parties, notice being waived, and the application being heard and considered, and it appearing on the face of the record herein that the brick street improvement in controversy was ordered by Council, without petition from a majority of the holders of the abutting property, in fact, without any petition from any of the abutting property holders, either a majority or a minority, and it appearing further that two-thirds of the members-elect of the Maysville City Council did not concur in the passage of said improvement ordinance, it is now held, therefore, without regard to the several other contentions respecting the validity of the ordinance in question, that said ordinance is invalid. It is, therefore, now ordered that the defendants, the City of Maysville, Rah & Schmidt Company and John Exterkamp, be, and each of them is now enjoined and restrained from constructing said improvement, or entering into a contract for the construction of same, or leasing or disposing of improvement bonds under said ordinance, but this injunction shall not become operative until the plaintiffs shall execute to the defendants a bond in the penal sum of one thousand dollars, conditioned in effect that the plaintiff will pay to the parties enjoined such damages as they may sustain, if it be finally decided that the injunction sought here in ought not to have been granted.

Witness my hand, this 28th day of June, 1915. C. D. NEWELL, Judge Mason Circuit Court.

The defendants will take an appeal without delay and their attorneys will prepare a brief and leave this morning for Frankfort to file the documents in the Court of Appeals. It is thought that the Court of Appeals will decide the matter in a few days, as that tribunal will be advised of the importance of an early decision.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING

Miss Anna Bell Howard Becomes Bride of Mr. Norman I. Lee.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Russell, on East Third street, was the scene on Monday afternoon of one of this season's prettiest weddings, when Miss Anna Bell Howard, the popular and attractive cousin of Mrs. Russell, was married to Mr. Norman I. Lee, of La Crosse, Wis., in the presence of a select gathering of friends and relatives.

The handsome residence was beautifully decorated with field daisies and lilies-of-the-valley and the front parlor, where the ceremony was performed, before an altar of palms and evergreens, was a veritable bower of spring blossoms.

Promptly at 2 o'clock, to the strains of the wedding march, the bridal party proceeded down the stairs, through the reception hall, to the front parlor. Miss Elizabeth Holmes, the flower girl, dressed in dainty pink and white, led the bridal procession, accompanied by Master Milton Russell, the ring bearer, clad all in white. Next came the maid of honor, Miss Beatrice Politt, of Memphis, Tenn., who wore an exquisite gown of white net, trimmed in green, and carried Killarney roses. The bride and groom followed the maid of honor and proceeded to the altar, where Rev. W. B. Campbell, of the First M. E. church, South, read the beautiful and impressive marriage ceremony, and the bride, who was strikingly handsome in white net, with picture hat to match, trimmed with white horon aigrettes and flowers, was given in matrimony by Mr. T. M. Russell. The groom wore a well fitting black cutaway, with gray trousers.

Immediately after the ceremony most delightful refreshments were served in the spacious dining hall amid congratulations, good wishes and health to the bride.

Miss Howard is one of Maysville's fairest daughters, who, by her charming personality and gracious manner, has surrounded herself with a host of friends and admirers. Who, while they hate to give up her jolly companionship which has ever meant so much to the younger social gatherings, are unanimous in their congratulations and in wishing to her the success and happiness she so richly deserves.

The groom is the son of Mr. Otto Lee, of La Crosse, Wis., and is the traveling representative of Swift & Company, of Chicago. He already bears an enviable reputation amongst his business associates and since he has resided in Maysville, has, by his earnestness of manner and exemplary character, won the admiration and esteem of those who have had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

The popular young couple were the recipients of many beautiful and costly presents in silver and cutglass, that testify to the high regard in which they were held by their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee left over the C. & O. on Monday afternoon for a bridal trip through the west, after which they will return to Maysville, where they will reside permanently.

ACCIDENT DELAYS PUMPING AT THE DAM.

A large leak in the supporting walls of the cofferdam at Dam No. 33, above this city, has delayed the work of pumping the cofferdam dry, preparatory to building the cement locks. The leak was first noticed Monday morning and before the men could reach it to make the necessary repairs, it had grown to a ten-inch stream. With this amount of water rushing in, the work of pumping has gone on very slowly and it will be a few more hours before the dam will be pumped entirely dry.

The filler of the cofferdam, which is sand, has proved unsatisfactory, as the seepage is great, but because of the severity of clay, the contractors had to resort to the use of sand, which is now causing them much trouble and delaying the work considerably. Another pump was added to the five already pumping, which brings the capacity of the pumps up to 10,000 gallons of water a minute. With this great outflow of water the dam will, barring further accidents, be pumped out within the next forty-eight hours.

After the bottom is allowed to dry, the work of driving the piles for the foundation of the lock system will begin. This lock it is hoped, will be completed this summer, when the cofferdam will be torn down and removed to the Ohio side of the river, where it will be rebuilt and work on the bear traps and body of the dam will be done.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Marx and nephew, Myron, will leave on the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce train for the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco, Wednesday. The tour will include all the principal points of interest through the west.

THE SOLID SOUTH.

The Southern states, and particularly those bordering on the Gulf of Mexico, have, for so long a time, voted themselves in the Democratic column, that the solid south has become almost traditional, but for some time we have been hearing nothing from that section but dissatisfaction, which has steadily grown as the people have come more and more to feel the ruinous effects of a Democratic tariff, until now, in some of those states, it has almost reached the proportions of open revolt against that party which has, in spite of the faithful support it has always received from that section, done everything in its power to wreck the industries of the south.

The solid Democratic south is a mystery almost beyond comprehension, for certainly it is evident that under Democratic rule the principal interests of many of the southern states can not live, much less thrive and expand, nor can it be said in mitigation of the south's continuous political blunder, that such destructive legislation has been enacted by the late Congress was not contemplated for the Democratic party has been itching for years to tear down the wall of prosperity which was built upon the solid foundation of the Republican tariff bills.

The Democrats had scarcely become settled in Washington when the attack began, and being aided by the White House with use of the mighty patronage lever, the Democratic leaders in Congress were successful in pulling down the Payne-Aldrich protection to prosperity and setting up in its place a so-called tariff law that aims a body blow at several of the principal agricultural products of the south and under which nearly every business has received a tremendous setback.

As a result of that legislation, Louisiana, which has for years been Democratic in name only, is threatening to throw off the yoke, and join that party under the principles of which her sugar industry can and will thrive again. If Louisiana does take such action it would not be at all surprising, nor would she be alone in the awakening, for Texas is complaining bitterly of the injury to its rice production; the citrus fruit growers of Florida find it extremely difficult to continue under the present law, and Alabama, the home state of the author of the law, will suffer untold injury because her iron and ore can not compete with similar Cuban products under the tariff as presently in force. These and several other states that formed the solid south are experiencing a bitter lesson and it is to be hoped that, as a result of that lesson, the threatened change of some of them to that party, which will restore prosperity in general, and their industries in particular, will become an accomplished fact at the coming national election.

The Dancing Business Man.

"The business man of the past loved to wear goggles. He thought they made him look more capable and honest. He thought they drew trade. But the gay, dancing business man of today, with his tango matinee and mixise teas, can't bear the thought of goggles, for he wants, up to the age of 60, to look like a college boy."

The speaker was Jerome S. McWade, a retired millionaire business man of Duluth. With a bitter laugh Mr. McWade went on:

"I heard a gay young dancing business man of 57 summers get a good call in court the other day. He was reading a document—without goggles, of course—and he stumbled and stuttered, and kept holding the document further and further from his poor eyes.

"The judge got mad at last and roared at him:

"For goodness' sake, Mr. Smith, get one of two things—get a pair of togs or a pair of spectacles!"

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING IS THE ROAD TO ECONOMY.

The Servant in the House.

Statisticians declare that only seven families out of each hundred employ hired help in this country, but so many letters similar to the following one are received that the problem presented seems of interest to every woman.

Here is the servant question viewed from one reader's dilemma: "Please write soon on maids; their hours of service; days off; also wages in a family of four; two sons, two parents. One son is at college and only home for vacations.

"I pay my maid $4 a week and send the laundry out; our house contains nine rooms; it is modern. On three afternoons she goes home at 2 o'clock and returns at 5:30 until after dinner. She goes out every night and on Thursdays she leaves at 2 in the afternoon and does not return until 7:45 the next morning. She goes home every other night; on alternate Sundays she goes to morning church service and I prepare dinner.

"We had guests on Easter Sunday and she complained bitterly because I insisted upon her remaining to wait table. This was the first Sunday in three months that I had asked this of her.

"I want to be fair to my servants, and would like to have you print in your column what other women pay and if I am unfair to ask for assistance when company comes.

WEARY ONE.

We are all born to our stations in life through the providence of our Maker; if it were otherwise, and we could choose our choice of evils, I am very sure few would desire to be in the position of a housekeeper attempting to settle wages and hours for maids.

Every middle-aged person can remember when 50 cents was a day's wages for a working man, and $1.50 a week's pay for housemaids. This scale has increased to really generous figures. A girl who receives $4 a week for housework in reality gets much more than she would have if she clerked or worked at any other employment at $10 a week. She has her room, which would cost her about $2 a week. Her board, light heat and laundry is furnished, and these items would amount to at least $7 a week more if she had to pay for them. Besides, a working girl in shop, store or factory must consider wear on clothing and take into account carfare and incidental expenses.

Three to four dollars a week wages, Thursday afternoons, two evening a week and alternate Sunday afternoons are the usual prerequisites offered maids by families in moderate circumstances.

As the majority of servant girls are of foreign birth, untrained to our methods of work and liable to leave the moment they think they can better themselves, this seems liberal. But we only hear of the unusual cases; there are thousands of faithful workers in the homes of our country who make the interests of their employers their own and contribute largely to the comfortable happiness of the families whose burdens they lighten. Such maids are "help" in the fullest sense of the word.

IDENTIFYING BATTLE VICTIMS.

Each of the armies in the great war has a regular system which enables it to identify the dead. The Russian soldier wears a numbered badge, the French soldier has an identification card stitched into his tunic, the German soldier a little metal disc bearing his number, the British soldier has an aluminum disc, with identification marks and church affiliation; the Japanese soldier has three discs, all alike, one on the neck, another in his belt and one in his boot; the Austrian has a gunmetal badge, locket shape, with an identification on a tiny parchment leaf within. The Turk is the only soldier who is so lightly valued that he carries no badge, identification evidently being regarded as needless.—The Christian Herald.

WATCH FOR PESTS.

Current and gooseberry bushes must be sprayed the moment the worms appear, which is as soon as the leaves are well formed. If you delay applying a poisoned spray of Paris green and water or arsenate of lead, your bushes will be stripped in a few days and then you will be helpless. Powdered heliothrips can be applied when the foliage is wet with good results. This can be bought at the drug store.

GREAT PEACE TREATIES

The Surrender of Appomattox, Ending the Civil War.

In the parlor of a square brick building in the Virginia village of Appomattox Court House, on the foggy Palm Sunday of 1865, two men sat at small tables, a group of officers standing around them.

One of the two men at the tables was stately of bearing, white-bearded, broad of brow. He was clad in a brand new dress uniform of gray, with gold trappings and the sword he wore was costly and of unimpaired gilt. The man at the opposite table was shorter, thick set and brown-bearded. A cigar was stuck in one corner of his thin-lipped mouth. His blue flannel uniform was wrinkled and unbrushed, and the trouser legs were stuck into the top of a pair of muddy old boots. He wore no sword.

There was nothing of the story-book hero about this grim little man in blue; nothing spectacular or flashy. He was taciturn, wholly undramatic, and he always went about his work in a quiet, matter-of-fact way. The particular work he had just finished was the crushing of the Southern Confederacy and the dealing of a death blow to the Civil War.

The End of the Confederacy.

He was U. S. Grant. The man in gray was General Robert E. Lee. Grant had smashed Lee's last defenses at Petersburg and had sent the once dreaded Army of Northern Virginia flying in retreat past Richmond toward Appomattox. There Sheridan's cavalry had cut off their retreat and captured the supply trains on which the Confederates were relying. Grant had come up with the main Federal forces and Lee was fairly caught.

The Army of Northern Virginia was the last real bulwark of the Confederacy—the very power that stood between it and destruction. Through death, capture and desertion during the past few days that army had dwindled to less than 28,000 ragged and hungry men, of whom only about one-third were armed. Between March 25 and Palm Sunday (April 9) Lee had lost something like 40,000 troops. There was now no alternative for him but to yield.

He and Lee met in the McLean house at Appomattox and there the terms of surrender were drawn up. These terms were practically the only "treaty" that ended the Civil War.

The Conqueror's Magnanimity.

Grant merely required that Lee surrender himself and his army, giving their parole of honor not to take up arms against the United States government again, unless regularly exchanged. These were the sole conditions exacted by the conqueror from his helpless foe.

He furthermore gave back to the Confederate officers their side arms and luggage—and to officers and men alike their horses—and pledged the faith of our government that they should not be punished for their "treason and rebellion" so long as they should commit no further acts of disobedience.

Also, at Lee's entreaty, Grant ordered rations dealt out to the starving Confederate soldiers, who for the past week or so had been living chiefly on scant quantities of parched corn, and he urged them to go back to their farms and begin the spring plowing.

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES

Kidney Diseases Cause Many Aches and Ills of Mayville People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so may weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and generally when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills frequently come, and there is an ever increasing tendency towards dropsy, gravel or fatal Bright's disease. When the kidneys fail there is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Donan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. Mayville testimony is proof of their effectiveness.

Mrs. Annie McClellan, 541 W. Second St., Mayville, Ky., says: "I was often dizzy and nervous and my head ached. I had pain in my back and my kidneys were weak. Donan's Kidney Pills stopped the complaint immediately and made me well and strong."

Mrs. McClellan is only one of many Mayville people who have gratefully endorsed Donan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you—don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Donan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. McClellan had—the remedy backed by home testimony, 50c all stores. COUNTY AGENT CASEY'S AC- COUNT OF TRIP TO "THE PENNY- RILE"

Who ever heard of such a thing.
The farmers from one end of the state visiting the farmers of another part; it was unprecedented.
It certainly looks as if the farmers are beginning to take an interest in one another, and want to learn something from each other.

The Mason county delegation, Squire W. M. Collins, E. F. Boyd, Jr., and County Farm Agent A.
M. Casey, left Maysville at 5:35
a. m. Tuesday, arriving at Lexington about 8:30 a. m., and went at once to the Experiment Station, where George Roberts, soil expert, Dr. Fred Mutchler and others were interviewed.

Dr. Kastle spread a fine lunch con in the dairy department, and after partaking of which, the heads of departments proceeded to show the visitors, about 200, over the station, inspecting the hog cholera serum laboratory, the chickens and other matters of interest.

We boarded our special about 4 p. m., for Louisville, where the business men gave us a most hearty welcome and a banquet at the Seelbach. We heard some splendid talks from Dr. Mutchler and some of the Louisville business men, promising their hearty co-operation with the farmer in efforts to put the farming business on a more profitable basis.

After the banquet we were invited by the B. F. Keith Theater Company to attend a performance at their theater.

Our train left Louisville about 2 a. m. Wednesday with about 250 delegates, farmers, county agents and specialists from the Experiment Station, with Dr. Fred Mutchler and Geoffrey Morgan in charge.

Arriving at Bowling Green, Warren county, Wednesday morning, we were escorted to the leading hotel, where we were shown every courtesy as the guests of the people of Warren county.

About sixty automobiles carried us to the farming district, where we saw immense level fields of wheat, corn, turf, oats, alfalfa, red clover and big strawberry patches and some crimson clover, as nearly all crimson clover in this county had been turned under for corn and other crops.

We found great farms (200 acres is a small farm here) containing hundreds of acres, with immense cattle barns, containing hundreds of cattle. The system of cattle feeding practiced by Warren county farmers is an admirable one from the standpoint of permanent soil fertility, (the maintenance of permanent soil fertility being the problem of the immediate future). The cattle are placed in these barns in the fall with quantities of straw for bedding and absorbent, with the addition of rock phosphate as an additional absorbent, the rock mixing with the liquids and bedding, which makes the phosphorus in the rock immediately available when hauled to the fields in the spring. From time to time more straw and rock are added. The cattle are not allowed to leave these barns from the time they are put there in the fall until spring, when they are sold. Water is supplied inside the barns, or rather in open sheds called covered barnyards. One of these farmers being asked how much money he had made on a certain head of cattle, replied that he made 800 tons of manure valued at $2 per ton. The manure made under these conditions is probably worth more than $2 per ton, as it is not exposed to the weather until hauled to the field in the spring.

At the noon hour we were the guests of the ladies of Bowling Green, who put before us a splendid luncheon and topped it off with the most unguilted strawberries ever seen. I will not dwell on the hospitality of the people of Warren county, for it was all like this.

We listened to some fine speakers during this noon hour and at the Western Normal School after supper.

The people of Christian county were not behind those of Warren county in the least when it came to hospitality, as they were hospitality itself. We were entertained at the best hotels as guests of the county.

Ninety-five automobiles were lined up to take our party (500 by this time) over the county.
We were waylaid along the road and taken to farm houses and fed cake and soft drinks and given cigars until we had nothing left to wish for along that line.

The wheat crop is the poorest in years, as the hessian has seriously damaged it. Ordinarily the farmers of Warren and Christian counties raise good crops of wheat (40 to 60 bushels per acre have been raised on whole fields) on land not nearly so good as our best Mason county lands, thanks to their methods of handling their cattle and manure, with the use of rock and acid phosphate as an addition to the manure. It is a great farming country. The farmers don't have to worry about washes—they don't have them.
The land is level, but the soil seems ready to work as soon after a rain as our more rolling land, as the under drainage is good.
We traveled for miles on miles without seeing a river or creek.
The country is drained by sinks.
Lost River flows under part of Warren county about sixty feet from the surface of the ground.

We saw great level fields of red clover, alfalfa and some crimson clover, most of the crimson clover having been turned under as green manure for corn and other crops.
Lime and phosphate have greatly assisted the farmers in obtaining these splendid fields of clover and alfalfa.

It is largely due to the business men of Hopkinsville that better farming obtains in Christian county, as the business men have given their hearty co-operation to the farmers in their effort to make their farming operations more profitable. It was through the efforts of Mr. R. E. Cooper, president of the Christian County Business Men's Association, that the Christian County Crop Improvement Association was organized. It is partly due to this organization that Christian county has improved her agriculture in the last few years. An organization of that character is the greatest asset an agricultural community can have, and this organization has been of great assistance to the demonstration work in the county.

The most striking phase of the conditions in these counties is the co-operation between the business and agricultural interests.
They are growing together both for each and each for both. More money for the farmer means more money for the merchant and other city residents.

CLEAN QUARTERS NECES- SARY.

Cough among the hogs may be due to very dusty quarters. With young hogs it is frequently due to minute thread-like worms in the bronchial tubes. A soft, hack-ling cough is a very common symptom of hog cholera. Hogs also have the common forms of bronchitis and pneumonia, just like other animals and people. With hogs, coughs and lung troubles, aside from cholera are frequently due to sleeping in warm quarters, possibly piled up, and then going out into cold places to feed.

STREET CARS WATER STREETS AT MILAN.

The streets of Milan are watered from the electric tram cars. On these watering cars reservoirs have been adapted to the platforms, and these reservoirs are emptied as the cars run, by means of perforated tubes placed flush at the front and back of the car.

"LIBAU."

Washington, D. C.—Libau, recently reported captured by the German invaders of the Russian Baltic provinces, where the Russian Kiel or Brooklyn navy yards are located, is one of the important naval and commercial ports of the Tsar's kingdom, and a city whose rapid growth during the last few years has given evidence of the remarkable future in store for the mighty Muscovite empire.
It forms the subject of the study in war geography issued today by the National Geographic Society.
The sketch of this prosperous port, as yet little known to Americans, reads:

"Libau is one of the first of Russia's naval bases, a strongly fortified port and a well supplied arsenal. The Russian government completed the extensive and powerful defensive works that enclose the port during 1893-1906. The naval harbor is north of the commercial harbor, though the fortifications were planned to include both harbors. The port is prepared to build, equip and commission naval fleets.

"Russians know and have a pride in Libau for its military strength and for its commercial enterprise and progress. It is the metropolis of Courland, and, with its fleets enjoying free passage of the Baltic sea, Libau has promise to become a Russian Bremen or, even, a Russian Hamburg. It is the home port of many Atlantic and coast liners, and its fine breakwater, spacious harbor and up-to-date docking facilities give it splendid advantages in its competition with the other ports of Russia.

"The annual exports of Libau total as high as $30,000,000, while its imports have soared to well beyond $10,000,000. The leading articles of export are oats, wheat, rye, butter, eggs, spirits, flax, linseed, oil-cake, pork, timber, horses and petroleum. A great part of the vast golden tonnage of butter from Siberia and the nearer interior that takes its way into Great Britain, France and Germany during times of peace went through Libau. Libau's imports are mainly manufactured goods, and modern Russia, demanding the conveniences and sanitary necessities of the western world, has been bringing stores of these things in through Libau.

"Millions of dollars have been expended in the harbor development of the city, and just before the outbreak of the war the government had under consideration plans for expending many millions more for extensive improvements.
The railway connections of Libau are good, Moscow, Petrograd, Diel and Kharkov being bound to the port by adequate railways.

"Side by side with the commercial strength that the city has developed, there has been laid the foundations for a great industry.
The establishment of an important naval station here has done much to encourage the industrial advance. Libau possesses large modern factories for the manufacture of explosives, machinery belts, sails, ropes and iron products. It has other important factories for the production of colors, furniture, matches, agricultural machinery, tin-plate, tobacco products, as well as soap-works, saw-mills, oil-mills, cory and linoleum factories and flour-mills.

"In appearance Libau is new and it is also solidly successful.
It is built of stone, with fine gardens, and laid out in wide streets.
The town is angular, or Anglo-Saxon and German in cut rather than Slav. Too, there are few evidences to the characteristic Slavonic in its architecture. The steep gables, the square and differently-proportioned lines of the German building are everywhere visible, there being little of the fanciful of the Slavonic builder, of the upturned, onion-shaped towers and other maze of florid complexities of Slavonic architectural composition.

"As in the case of other Baltic cities, Libau is merely a stepdaughter of Russia, not a blood descendant. Its population of some 70,000 is German, Jewish, Lithuanian, with just a small sprinkling of Russian administrators.
Before the war, the street signs of the city were in German, Russian and Lettish.

"Canals, jammed with shipping, added life to the city before the war. Libau has been popular as a fashionable seaside resort among the Russians and many Germans from the neighboring German provinces have followed in increasing numbers here each summer in the wake of their Russian neighbors.
The city was held by the Order of

SAVES DAUGHTER

Advice of Mother no Doubt Prevents Daughter's Untimely End.

Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Braucher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months."

I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles.

Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give it up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me.

At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing.

I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health.

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, get a bottle of Cardui today. Delay is dangerous. We know it will help you, for it has helped so many thousands of other weak women in the past 50 years.

CLEAN UP.

To those who enjoy the beautiful, just now Sixth street presents a pleasing appearance. Street Commissioner Ben Smith has had his force busy cleaning up the weeds.

From Limestone east it might well be called Hollyhock avenue. This good, old-fashioned, home-like flower greets you in all colors, from the deepest red to the purest white. The flowers in the neatly trimmed yards are in harmony with the surroundings, and Sixth street, with its beautiful view up and down the river, is well worthy of the club. You will enjoy the walk.

But what a contrast! When we turn from Sixth street to Union street, around January Park. Sweet coveys has about taken possession of the street and pavement from Hall alley over to Third street. We have no objections to furnishing the bees food for honey, but we emphatically object to turning one of our principal streets into a place for bee culture.

Will not the City Fathers see that the East End in the next two days is cleaned up?

The East End for the next week will be the most visited and frequented part of our city. Visitors from all parts of the county and adjoining counties and Ohio will make Beechwood Park their amusement place. Let us be commensurate with the attraction.

THE SHOWS.

The Gem presented one more of that splendid serial, "Who Pays?" These pictures have won their way into the hearts of the movie lovers of this city and every number of the series is well attended. The Gem orchestra delighted the patrons with a splendid program.

The Washington Opera House had in the movie line the "New Exploits of Elaine." This gripping story still is the leading picture in the opinion of many and the house was crowded at every performance. In vaudeville, Albert Leonard pulled off some new stunts in clog dancing, which were good. His impersonations of the different positions of the players in the great national game of baseball took the house by storm. Jimmie and Kitty Elliott are a team that is hard to beat, both having good voices and are good dancers. The female member of the team does a shoe dance in the latest style. Several good songs are also in their act. The show as a whole is hard to beat.

CAMPBELL TUCKER.

Tuesday morning at an early hour, Mr. Campbell Tucker, aged 75, died at his home, near Stone Lick, in the county. Mr. Campbell was a prominent farmer, and his death is a blow to the community. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Mattie Tolle, of Lexington, and Mrs. Gus Tolle, of the county, and five sons, Messrs. John and Claude Tucker, of Minnesota; Messrs. Edward, Jasper and Odus Tucker, of the county.

1916 Overland $750

—but they can't meet the price.

When the new 1916 model Overland was announced and the price lowered $325, selling a car for $750 that is essentially the same as the one which sold last season for $1,075, consternation spread among "would-be" competitors. They can't meet the price and maintain the quality. What will they do? One of the manufacturers instead of meeting the price admitted their inability to do so, and instead, put two more cylinders on the motor, making it a "six," and raised the price $35. This increase in price will probably cover the actual additional manufacturing cost of adding the two cylinders. Will you pay $325 for two extra cylinders that probably do not cost the manufacturer $35 to build?

And there's no High Tension Magneto with these cars either. Think it over. Then have us demonstrate the Overland.
